Published by the Student Body of the MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA

VOLUME 43

To

dreamer of dreams which came true—for the benefit of others . . . unselfish and devoted servant of the Commonwealth and her youth . . . educator extraordinary, and for thirty-one years chief architect of an ever greater and more useful Medical College of Virginia,

THIS 1946 X-RAY
IS DEDICATED WITH AFFECTION, PRIDE AND RESPECT
—R. BLACKWELL SMITH, JR.

To
ROBERT BLACKWELL SMITH

President, July 1, 1956

As Dean and Assistant President you have already demonstrated the qualities of mind and heart expected in a President. We also point with pride to your demonstrated leadership, your capacity to make friends for the college and for yourself, your sense of community responsibility, your courage, yet good spirit of give and take.

For these and a host of other outstanding qualities, we dedicate this Annual to you, our new President, with every possible good wish for tomorrow—for yourself and for our alma mater.

IN MEMORIAM

EARL T. TERRELL, JR., B.S., M.D.
Associate in Psychiatry and Neurology
1907-1955

EMILY GARDNER, B.A., M.D.
Associate Professor of Pediatrics
1899-1956

THE X-RAY for the year 1955-1956 would not be complete without a real tribute to the persons listed above who died during the past year. Both of them gave so much to the students during their years of service with MCV that we bow our heads in grateful appreciation. MCV has been indeed fortunate to have had faculty members such as these on its staff.

Historian

ONE torrid day early in September some four years ago, eighty-four sparkling specimens of humanity all answered "Present Sir" to the roll call and thus embarked on a course toward the distant, almost undiscernible M. D. Of necessity, apparently, there was to be considerable tough sledding. The translation of "We don't know": "This compound comes into the picture in a great big way"; "Your microscope is dirty," into usable knowledge was at best almost impossible. The "skewed cartoons" offered the necessary relief. Then there were those super-visualizations punctuated by "huh—ya see?" By the end of that part of the trip all were expert at adjusting kymographs but would have panicked at the thought of meeting a patient.

The start of the next year occasioned a groan. Our worst fears seemed to have basis in fact when, "We're having a hard and difficult quiz today" acquired near theme song proportions. The memory schemes became impossible when it seemed that we would be required to remember that "as Borscht and Girst showed in their case in the Falkland Islands, the cantharidian beetle may be a vector of bagamushi fever." The daily, "Will do RBC, CBS, second study of slides provided," almost approached the ridiculous. "Seuse me, I didn't know there were women in the pool tonight," suggested that life isn't totally tedious. The "one mouse power engine" in the Egyptian Building lecture hall air-conditioner remained inadequate throughout the year. The invitation to join "Wuthering, Schneideburg and myself back in the club car" was appreciated. Eventually "fibrinoid necrosis" became a byword.

The clinicians took over at that point. They "foxed" us by beginning with the common cold as the first of the infinite lecture series but ended with such as idiopathic thrombotic thrombocytopenic purpura. Each of these began with, "Will you run the projector please, Doctor?"

A healthy transfusion of West Virginia blood brought our group to full strength at this point. Clinical medicine became an actuality, though we didn't know exactly where we fitted into the program. The 1:00 A.M. call—"We have a patient who has been in the ER for three days, who we are admitting to medicine and who needs a stat CBC and urine"—was at best puzzling. House staff rounds seemed to consist primarily of, "Put that on the student request sheet." Patient workups were of necessity sandwiched in between "recreation and occupational therapy." The most startling change of all took place at this time when, as happened to two of us, an old man with prostatism called us "Doctor" for the first time, arousing in us both a tingling thrill and a silent, fearful acknowledgment of how little we knew.

The four year anniversary of that "torrid day in September" was begun on a hopeful note. Aside from the donning of the full white uniform, our first act was that of being fitted out with cap and gown—unbelievable. Lectures became fewer. Awe of the pit became and remained the central theme of conversation, being displaced only briefly by, "But the Big Ten is just afraid to schedule West Virginia." The knowledge of procedures became important: "You've contaminated yourself, Doctor"; "But Dr. Hatten a placenta doesn't kick"; all "senior stat students on surgery" became extremely proficient at passing Levine tubes and suturing. All remember . . . "the tonsils caressing each other in the midline"; "Have the electrolytes been done on him today?" "Can't you hold the retractor a little higher—I know you're tired, but try"; "Call Dr. Zimberg for me, please." Three cardinal dates became magic, yet each with its passage brought only a sigh of relief. The matching plan announcement date, the last final and commencement were our Shangri-La, reached only after an arduous but undeniably happy trip.

" . . . As you know, we try to hold these meetings to the prescribed time."

At six in the morning we hop from the sack,
Grab little black bags and books in a stack;
Don our white jackets and breakfast we eat,
And for eight o'clock lecture we race to our seat.
We learn about ulcers, diseases of the thyroid,
Dystocia, impetigo, and reaction of the schizoid;
Treatment of lesions—both malignant and benign.
The evaluation and importance of each symptom and sign.
Notes we write until our hands are poor wrecks
“And what's not covered here will be found in your texts.”
Beginning at ten we master our skills
In accurate detection of murmurs and thrills;
Or with the more learned silently debate
The relative sizes of the true conjugate;
Or see the ENT patient with eager hope
Of inspecting the membrane with the new otoscope.
Blood to be drawn—although veins she has none.
CBC, differentials, and urinalyses to be run.
Then, finally at five, when “We stand adjourned,”
There are still pages of notes and books to be learned.
When at night our heads on the pillow we lay,
We close our eyes and earnestly pray
That, with all the work and exams so near,
We all shall become learned Seniors next year.

CLASS

OFFICERS

THE country club schedule of the first few weeks was like the insidious onset of a fulminating disease, as soon each professor and department had a full scale panic program organized with Dr. Hennigar leading the parade. As the tempo increased, we became more aware that we were becoming swamped with myriads of facts coming from all directions. The well planned correlation of courses which was so evident in the Freshman year was conspicuously absent, as each department strived to snow us with their material with a seemingly complete disregard of our ultimate goal—to learn medicine and become good doctors.

The ebb was reached with the start of Pharmacology. Quizzes t.i.d. and panic sessions q4h were the newly acquired regimen. School had developed into a continuous series of "Cram Sessions," and we looked forward to the Third Quarter when we hoped we could bring some order out of the confusion.

Yet, through all this there were many occasions of humor and enjoyment: The new Genetics Memorial Building across Marshall Street from the Egyptian Building in honor of Dr. Eugene McChromosome; the Freddy Bleiberg Silver Prescription Award; one of Dr. Hennigar's cohorts who was named "Child Actor of the Year" for his outstanding performances in lab and the autopsy room; a song title suggested by Dr. Freund, "Can You Hear Me, Gladstone?" and the song written for Harvey Haag Day, "16 Quizzes and What Do You Get?"

High points of the year: Dr. Count Gibson's lectures on antibiotics; Dr. Page's lecture on malaria; Dr. Hennigar's enjoyable, though often painful, brand of humor; and our class party in the fall.

Prognosis: in spite of all mentioned before, the prognosis is still good—we're a lot closer than we were a year ago—and recovery is anticipated without sequelae.

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

WILLIAM OVERTON HARRIS, JR.
Historian

“EIGHTY-FOUR lost souls on the highway of life” found themselves at MCV on September 7, 1955. It was a strange but exciting feeling seeing all these new people, and we wondered what each one would be like. For many of us, it was a foreign land with a new language to master, but it wasn’t long before we were being “spoon” fed by Dr. Hegre in Embryology, tracing “pathways to consciousness” with Dr. Ingersall and Mrs. Jones in Neuroanatomy, and peering through microscopes in the afternoons with Dr. Kelly. Gray’s Anatomy was opened for the first time and we were off to the races.

It wasn’t long before all in the class were good friends and most of us had become acquainted with the “corner store.”

Before we knew it, our first tests were upon us and most of us, not knowing what to expect, began to realize what a “spastic state” was in the true sense of the word.

Thanks to our helpful professors, however, we survived the onslaught and came out—well, almost normal.

In December we had our first class party, complete with combo and refreshments—it was a terrific success!

After returning from a much needed Christmas vacation we reduced our cadavers to bones and ligaments and at last were ready for exams. That “exams are over feeling” was mighty nice for a while but after only a few days off, we started the spring term. We felt pretty wise, but it wasn’t long before Physiology and Biochemistry reared their ugly heads and we realized there was no letting up.

There is much to be said for the class of ‘59 and much more will be said in the future, but for now, as Davis would say, “That is all, Doctor.”

Starting Check

WE BECAME future dentists in September, 1952, and assembled at McGuire Hall for our first look at one another, our faculty, and our school.

Outline Form

We started our basic sciences during the Freshman year: Bacteriology, Biochemistry, Anatomy, Histology, and others. We were also introduced to the art and science of dentistry in such courses as Oral Anatomy, Dental Materials, and Prosthetics. This stormy year was our "outline form" (apologies to G. V. Black) in that it shaped our future years at MCV.

Retention Form

During the Sophomore year, we continued the basic sciences: Physiology, Pathology, and Pharmacology. We added Crown and Bridge, and Operative to our curriculum. This, too, was a hectic year: Who forgot the Hemostat in physiology lab, and who threw the chalk at whom in pathology? "Meet Mr. Dentoform, your first patient." Remember the move to Wood Memorial Dental Building? This was our "retention form" year, because through thick and thin we stuck together as a class.

Resistance Form

Our Junior year, and our first exposure to the clinic. For the first time we were able to apply the theoretical knowledge we acquired during the first two years. Under clinical guidance, we were hammered into semblances of dentists, and were indurated for the coming year.

Preparation

The Senior year! This is the year that we've been waiting for! Everyone is "pushing toward the center," and it's "go, go, go." Survey cases, major cases, minor cases, root canals, crowns, bridges—ad infinitum. Time is of the essence and there doesn't seem to be enough of it, but eventually the pattern becomes more and more complete.

Restoration

We've received our dental education, have formed our philosophies concerning it, and now all that remains is the polish.

Finish

Graduation and the reception of that coveted D.D.S.

O F F I C E R S

WELL, another year has finally rolled around. The slow, tortuous climb, with its many pitfalls is nearing completion.

The clinic was tackled with great enthusiasm this summer. However, we were not all as calm and collected as we pretended to be, especially after that inevitable question—"Am I your first patient?" Most of us, however, gained confidence after a few weeks and ploughed through the charts with great diligence. The amalgam and carbides flew! Of course, by now a few of us were bogged down in compound, but a little xylene took care of that.

Then came Pedodontia, taught by Dr. McCoyx (Olps! Pardon me—Dr. Vincent). This was the time when the well-behaved little children calmly remained seated as we rendered treatment.

By the way, if anyone has lost a "green handle" knife, ask Koogler about it.

All in all, it has been a good year, and June 1957 looms just ahead. By striving and working together, we should all experience enjoyment and satisfaction as the degree of D.D.S. is placed in our hands. "Ah! Indubitably so!"

OUT of the sluggish mist of early autumn in the year 1954, along with Davy Crockett and the "Go! Go! Go! Girl," appeared an unseen group of microorganisms, better known as Freshmen and, more specifically, dental students. Unnoticed we were, until a few months had passed and in the anatomy labs we began to proliferate. The effect of our presence was soon felt by some of the keener microbe hunters, but not until some time later in the year were we actually seen by human eyes for the first time.

We shall forever remember that fearful day when the oil immersion lens was slowly lowered and focused upon our close-knit colony. Before this time we had lived happily as one family with never a thought that some of us differed morphologically from others.

Dr. Time and his cohorts, not without great difficulty we might add, finally succeeded in differentiating some of our members from the others. Through differential media and tests of many kinds we were divided into classes, separated, never again to experience the content, happy family union once known. Some were called "Delta "Sigma Coccii" and a similar number of others called "Bacillus Omega".

Woe were we—now divided and unable to reunite our lines of defense! Split as we were, we fought valiantly both against ourselves and the outside forces. Even against these odds we may have survived and reobtained some of the unity we once had, but for the advent of the most powerful weapons ever witnessed by bacteria—"Prosthetontacillin" and "Pathomycin." To add insult to injury we discovered a traitor in our midst, a fifth column—namely, Bacteriophage Flippen.

What a pitiful plight! Caught with our virulence down only the most hearty of us escaped untouched. But were we disheartened? We certainly were not! From out of all this came a knowledge of lasting value. We discovered that once we had acquired a certain resistance to this magic force we could still live happily though not unscathed by the past.

At this very moment we are making plans for the future in order that we shall not again be the subjects of sneak attacks.

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

SEPTEMBER 6, 1955, just another day for most people, probably was the most important day in the careers of seventy-five men assembled at the Medical College of Virginia to begin their studies in Dentistry. Hailing from many states and representing many faiths and walks of life, these fresh college graduates and former GI's formed the largest Freshman class ever to matriculate at MCV School of Dentistry.

In spite of the great diversity in their earlier modes of life, political affiliations and outside interests, this group had one common desire: to find the best way through a complex course of study which is known to produce competent dentists.

Upperclassmen and faculty alike have given a hand to make the maze of Gross Anatomy, Biochemistry and the like a lot less dismaying.

A fine class spirit developed at the very beginning of the year. Parties and new friendships were ever in the making. Our associates included not only the living, but our departed friends in McGuire Hall also became near and dear to us.

We took long shots on class elections and found our aims pretty good in most instances.

At Christmas a joyful noise was heard from students taking Dr. Brownson's "Comprehensive" Neuro Anatomy exam. A few days holiday out in the world of leisure opened our eyes to what was facing us in 1956; the necessity of mastering skills and techniques necessary for the job at hand.

This Class of '59 has found much to chew on and with a spirit that defies analysis we've taken our first bite. We now ask only for the power of good digestion. From where we now stand, seventy-five men are functioning as a congenial Freshman team, each heading in orderly development for the "Chair" in 1959.

MR. PETER L. BOGAROSH

*For his sincere interest and guidance we wish to extend our deepest appreciation and gratitude to Mr. Peter L. Bogarosh. AS WE approach the conclusion of our four-year period in Pharmacy school, we cannot suppress our backward glances and mixed emotions. The years have passed more rapidly than we anticipated, and yet our wealth of memories and experiences provide some conception of the length of time involved. With our experience and extensive background, we are somewhat enabled to predict our future in our profession. And so we shall review our experiences as students, realizing their importance and significance to our individual futures.

In September, 1952, we were oriented and introduced to a rather rigorous routine of lectures, labs and the inevitable examinations. Mr. Pitts threw chemical reactions and problems from one direction and Dr. Hughes retaliated with genetics and evolutions until our overloaded brains cried out for mercy. Some of our classmates succumbed to this onset and departed to seek their fortunes elsewhere. However, those of us who remained were thoroughly indoctrinated and finally found our way through the maze of chemistry, biology and introductory pharmacy into a still more confusing era termed the Sophomore year.

We entered this phase of our education feeling somewhat more confident, but with a vague realization that we still have a rather vast area of unknown fields to investigate. Our suspicions were verified with an opening quarter, introducing us to the intricacies of Inorganic Chemistry, Physics and a mysterious something known as Quantitative Analysis. We plodded through nine months of Economics, Foundations of Pharmacy, and finished in a blaze of Comparative Anatomy via one unforgettable Dr. Hughes.

As we donned our lab jackets and walked confidently into Galenical lab, we felt that at last the real secrets of Pharmacy were about to be opened unto us. This illusion soon vanished as we hurriedly contacted USP and NF sources in an attempt to discover just what it was that we were doing. We all became slaves to a demanding yet understanding professor of Organic Chemistry. Other highlights of our Junior year included a quick run-down on Pharmacognosy, a three-hour Accounting lecture every (ugh!) Saturday morning, a First-Aid Instructors' course and our first experience with the actual compounding of prescriptions.

It was indeed a wonderful feeling to venture into the fourth and final year of pharmacy school. There were still many finishing touches to apply to our education before we should be prepared to enter our professional careers, but we approached the task with a certainty that we could accomplish our goal. Our practice in the Hospital Pharmacy proved quite valuable and interesting. We also explored a few of the pathways of Biochemistry (I tink ye should measure—) and Physiology (—der kidney is der organ composed of nephrons—), and continued through more chemistry in the form of Organic Pharmaceutical.

Now, as we approach the conclusion of our years as Pharmacy students—as we plan various Senior functions such as a trip to Detroit and Kalamazoo—and as we continue our study, we occasionally glance backward at the years behind us. With a parting wave to MCV and everyone responsible for our invaluable instructions, we venture forth as Pharmacy graduates, eager to contribute our small portion to the betterment of mankind.

THE peak has been reached and now we are making the downward stride toward the jumping off place of graduation in '57. We need little reminding of the chaotic events that will ever keep this year of our life full bloom in our memories.

The synthesis of hexamethylenetetramine from ammonia and formaldehyde is a milestone in our organic progress. The fires in the organic laboratory served a dual purpose of driving the laboratory instructors wild and elevating our spirits. The laboratory reagent "Ethanol" was most intoxicating in the popular preparation of choice "Gin Rickey."

The identification of crude drugs and the continuous peering through the microscope may give this class the distinction of being the largest one-eyed class in Medical College history.

First Aid introduced us to humility and at times made us appear like refugees, but it, too, had its enjoyable moments, like giving the girls artificial respiration.

Bacteriology will forever remain in our fondest memories, where only the fittest survive the laboratory without being hit in the eye with Neisseria gonorrhoea and, bacteriologically speaking, the "mouth is a rather dirty hole."

Copious lecturing in pharmacy has lifted the curtain of pharmaceutical ignorance and has made us aware of the strength, quality, and purity of official preparations. The Galenical lab served a humanitarian purpose by supplying the medicated suppositories for the needy members of our class to ease the pain and aid in the rapid recovery in preparation for our Senior year.

CLASS

OFFICERS

IN SEPTEMBER, 1955, the class of 1958 returned to MCV. We were now a class of sophisticated Sophomores.

We had lost several of our first year classmates but we were joined by a host of transfer students who seemed ready and willing to brave the battle with us—and what a battle it turned out to be!

Having had a fairly easy time our first year we were looking forward to our second year's work but few of us were aware of the amount of work planned for us.

During our first quarter, Mr. Ashby seemed determined to teach us every word in our 1,000-page Pharmaceutical Chemistry book but Uncle Sam was on our side, and Mr. Ashby marched off to the Navy before the quarter ended. Dr. Weaver then took over the class, and many thought that we had jumped out of the frying pan into the fire. Dr. Weaver must have felt sorry for us because most of us slipped by the first quarter without too many scars.

Everyone thought that the second quarter would be easier because we had finished Pharmaceutical Chemistry, and Mr. Taylor had assured us that Physics would be easier. Well, it was easier—easier to flunk.

Finally came third quarter and life was still miserable. What we had not learned about Organic the first two quarters, Dr. Smith was determined to teach us this third and final quarter.

Despite all our hardships everyone appears to have had a fine time. We have one consolation—others before us have made the grade and so will we (we hope). We shall be looking forward to seeing everyone next year as Junior students.

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

ROBERT VINCENT BEALE
Historian

ON SEPTEMBER 6th, we entered McGuire Hall to register for the coming year. For some of us it was our first venture as a college student, but for all of us it was then that our chosen career commenced to come within our reach.

It required only a few days, with the assistance of a well-planned orientation, to become acquainted with our fellow students.

Memories of the many social events throughout the year—parties, ball games, picnics and dances—will live with us indefinitely.

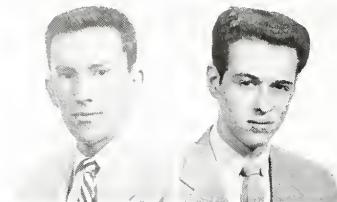

Whether we stumbled or leaped over the first stepping stone to success, we realize the fact that we are closer to our goal.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our Dean, Assistant Dean, professors, and last but certainly not least, our laboratory instructors, for their helpful guidance throughout a year of prosperity.

We pass our thoughts to the time we spent in our very helpful chemistry laboratory, and to the well spent time laboring over drawings in biology laboratory, as well as the realization of the help they contributed to the course. Our lectures in biology and chemistry will abide with us forever. The deep impression left with us by our optimistic English professor and the roots and unknowns of our algebra and "trig" course will also linger with us.

As we look backward, we are also looking upward and wishing hopefully that our next three years will be as prosperous as our first. At the completion of our course, we wish to be Pharmacists who will be a credit to any community as well as to the forever growing, prospering profession itself.

THREE years of work and play have come and gone. Though the pathway has been long and rough at times, still we can remember the day when we first encountered our vast M. C. V. There were thirty-two of us preclins, fresh, eager, and entranced by our new home, but literally "scared to death!" We were about to embark on an important mission, one about which we had dreamed, planned, and prayed for a long time and which was finally beginning to come true. The question arose in our minds: "Could we truly fulfill and carry out all of our hopes and dreams?" We were to find the answer to that question.

Classes started with a bang and it wasn't long before it seemed we were going to anatomy lab, writing all sorts of long papers, and taking tests twenty-four hours a day. We were bombarded with such words as sternocleidomastoid, tachrhythmia, sphygmomanometer, cholecystojejunostomy, odontoid process, xerophthalmia—they were just a jumble of letters to us. Sleeping was a recreation; that is, if you could find the time for it.

The day soon came when we were to begin working on the wards. We became thrilled and scared at the same time. But there we stood, looking so professional in our blue lab dresses and white shoes and stockings. To be assigned to 3 South sent cold chills through some of us. Though we often had "butterflies" in our stomachs, nevertheless we now felt we were climbing higher toward our goal—to be a nurse.

March 12th came—the day we had been eagerly awaiting. Our Capping Ceremony was not only thrilling but very inspirational to us. To wear the coveted M. C. V. cap brought not only a sense of achievement but also a great sense of responsibility.

The days have flown by, leaving with us many memories—memories of joys, tears, hopes, disappointments, and achievements. Through the years our number has decreased until now there are twenty of us who proudly wear the black band and await our graduation with great anticipation.

Some of us shall soon leave M. C. V., but M. C. V. will never leave us. You will always hold a place in our hearts, for you have taught us how to live, how to love, and how to serve our fellowman.

REMEMBER how proud you felt when you first went through the cafeteria line and announced that you were a Junior, and yet how quickly you became used to being a Junior, and how fast time seemed to pass? With all your classes and your work in the hospital, time slipped by and soon it was Halloween with its dances and parties.

Remember the joy when you finally finished Surgical Nursing? Remember also how thankful you were when the Sophomores began to work in the hospital and lightened your work load? Then came the day when you started your first specialty, and how it brought with it a sense of satisfaction and accomplishment.

Remember the carnival we gave to raise money for the Senior breakfast? Ah, the cookies you made, the tumbling and the games!

Before you knew it, the Christmas dance was here; and everyone was buying new formals. The dance certainly was wonderful. Then it was almost Christmas and there was shopping to be done and cards to be sent. As usual, you manage to get everything done: and Christmas quickly comes and goes.

Remember how quickly the year went from then on; classes started and ended, special services began and finished, Valentine's Day and its big dance had come and gone, and soon Easter was here. Easter meant a lot of things, it meant that the Senior breakfast was not far off. It meant graduation was just around the corner with all its parties, banquets and dances, many of which you attended.

Soon the Seniors would be gone; and we'll be going on our vacations, which to some of us will bring marriage with its new name and new adventure; but to all of us it will bring a new year and the new title of "Senior." But never will we forget the joy and sorrow, the toil and pleasure, the letdowns and the fulfillments, the competition and the companionship, the serving and the gratification, and the sense of accomplishment of our Junior year in the School of Nursing of the Medical College of Virginia.

PURPOSE:

The relief of pain and discomfort; to aid others to attain or maintain a healthy state of mind and body.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS:

1. During the curriculum of the degree program of nursing education, it is necessary to participate in the activities of a Sophomore year.
2. Although the subjects are somewhat difficult and varied, each student must have a thorough understanding of each one in order to pass.
3. The Sophomore year is designed to broaden the student's scope of the medical sciences and somewhat limit the leisure time.

REQUISITES:

1. Students who have successfully completed the Freshman year.
2. Ability to stay awake to study at all hours of the night.
3. A talent to write with the speed of light during the lectures of professors.
4. A genuine desire to help people which ultimately makes all the other problems diminish.

PROCEDURE:

MAIN STEPS

1. The enjoyment of a summer which was not overloaded with subjects but had just enough for the student to remember that she was in college.
2. The donning of neat, blue uniforms which made the students miniature angels of mercy.
3. The return to Cabaniss Hall in September after a five weeks' vacation with the determination, "to do better than I did last year."
4. Receiving experience in working in the hospital.
5. Playing Santa Claus to one another before the Christmas holidays began.
6. The exchanging of the blue uniform for a white one and the addition of the long-awaited nurses' cap.
7. Learning new and complicated procedures.
8. Participating in and enjoying various social activities.
9. Seeing wisdom in the choice of becoming a student nurse and attending the Medical College of Virginia.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. Trips to the beach were made; more frequent visits home, and the improvement of outdoor sports was indulged in at this time.
2. Tours were made in the MCV hospital; operations were witnessed; patients were interviewed.
3. Introduction to anatomy, anthropology, nutrition and basic nursing.
4. Becoming accustomed to rising at 6:00 a.m. and becoming proficient in the art and science of scrubbing.
5. Working a full eight-hour day during part of the holidays.
6. Preparation for a capping ceremony; writing a class prayer; and a class ring; happy in the excitement but being fully aware of the additional responsibility.
7. Progressing rapidly toward the next goal of becoming Juniors.
8. Using the limited span of time to its fullest extent.
9. Realizing that the experiences occurring this year will be hard to duplicate in their teaching value.

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

CABANISS HALL has seen a lot of girls in its many years as a freshman dormitory, but none just like the class which moved in on September 6, 1955. In the first place, the class of '59 was an unusually large one, nearly twice as many girls as last year. The wind whistled a merry welcome as we carried in those innumerable bags, boxes and bundles. After all our unpacking, we were left with the ever-present problem of where to put one more thing.

Orientation week, with all its social events and newly made friends, ended all too soon. At last we had become accustomed to the Broad Street traffic at 3:00 p.m., the cafeteria food and the smell of formaldehyde just before supper. Biology and chemistry had taken top priority, with English and history running a close second. Bedtime found us counting blood vessels and bones instead of sheep. However, these devices were laid aside when we learned the art of relaxing in hygiene class.

All work and no play won't last long where there are those who are young in spirit. Christmas brought its round of social events and the freshman assembly. Memories of carolling in the hospital and the Christmas party brightened our days the rest of the year.

Yes, our first year at M. C. V. has been an important and memorable one. These are only a few of our experiences. We have passed many milestones on what we hope is our road to success, service and happiness as professional nurses.

THE smallest class at MCV entered in March with four members. Alma Abbott was elected their president. They went into the hospital labs to toil for six months until they could join the new and larger class for lectures.

The twenty-five girls in the September class were initiated by that long, hot tour of the Hospital and the rest of the College. Lectures and studying began the next day. We struggled through Urinalysis, Hematology, Histology, Serology, Chemistry, Bacteriology, and Parasitology. In the meantime we became familiar with vacuum tubes, needles, BUN, CBC, BSP, and so forth—then we began venipunctures. Our class officers were elected in October.

Thanksgiving vacation was preceded by a spaghetti dinner which was enjoyed by all. At this time we lost one of our class: Mrs. Tennie Smith left to rejoin her husband in West Virginia. We were all sorry to see Miss Louise Flanders, one of our instructors, leave for a much needed rest; however, she was replaced by our very capable Miss Rose Peluso.

The Christmas cocktail party given by the Department of Clinical Pathology was the highlight of the year. Santa Claus was good to us. Four of the class received diamonds: Fran Tuchman, Mag Kirson, Sue Spessard, and Jo Rudisill.

The "March Four" now finds itself awaiting the Registry exam and new jobs. The September crew faces its final exam and six long months of practical training in the hospital laboratories.

SO NOW you're a physical therapist, an alumnus of MCV. Ever stop and remember how it was—back then?

From the first days of admission tests to the last days of registry tests you worried, fretted and wondered whether you would make it.

Eight hours a day, and sometimes more, you sat and listened and wrote and performed and, once in a while, studied for three or four more hours at night.

The short trip to class—click—“walk”—click—“don’t walk” . . . from here on out the students will not use the elevators . . . who will be our subject today? . . . let me warn you, drop your pencil in here and you’ll miss half the lecture . . . most of these fibers terminate in the inferior colliculus from the cochlear nuclei, which make the inferior colliculus an important relay center to the medial geniculate body for auditory impulses in the monkey . . . aah, how can you be so stupid? . . . what is a nerve fiber? the forearm, when loaded fully, acts as third class lever exhibiting concentric contraction . . . don’t forget to let a scum form on top of the paraffin . . . today, I want you to work on those areas of the body which you might not yet be familiar with . . . try E and H stain . . . if anything is coming off around here, I want in on it . . . let’s keep our professional attitude . . . the ten minute quizzes . . . we wish you a relative Merry Christmas—wait till you get back! . . . scapulo-humeral syndrome complicated by upward and downward rotation of the scapula . . . vere are der dry cells? —who has der dry cells?—complain!—complain!—ve must have der dry cells!! . . . but we must also develop our kinesthetic awareness . . . callous covered glutes from the six-inch snakepit stools—probably still have the scars . . . lunch—second floor, social center—bologna sandwich and a hand of bridge . . . lost another nickel in that * * * O # # coke machine . . . for B.O. we recommend phenol and formaldehyde . . . turning red from Id to Superego at Dr. Kelly’s jokes . . . class meeting—when are we gonna have a party? . . . don’t bother to take notes in here—the tests are only common sense anyway . . . what is a physical therapist? . . . the female tends to float in a horizontal position in water because the center of buoyancy tends to lie close to the center of gravity . . . any time off will be a gross error on the part of the schedule committee—an event to be taken full advantage of for celebrations . . . also-o-o-o. you are cordially invited to try to become physical therapists; and we dare you to pass any of our anatomy exams.

Well, here you are and, even though the going was a bit tough at times, there were many, many pleasant experiences at MCV which you will remember and cherish for the rest of your life.

THAT first day last September when we entered the portals of the Baruch Center of Physical Medicine found us all a little bewildered. Here we were at a professional school—quite a change from the campus of each of our universities and colleges of last year. We were delighted to be able to forego the long registration lines we'd experienced before. Very soon we were caught up in the drama and vast array of the white coat of M.C.V.

During those first days when we were constantly reminded, "It's rough!" we wondered what we had stepped into. While sitting on the stools of the snakepit we were a little skeptical when Miss Hirt said, "The seats will get a little less hard after awhile." They did. Histology lab was a game of "Who's got the 'scopes and mirrors?" One of the light moments of the student-faculty reception was when Zack mistook the iced coffee for sherbet.

Practically the whole class ended up arranging the "Hire the Handicapped" display. At the school picnic Sid's puppy got a rush from the girls. Marcia's witty writings were the cause of many guffaws issuing from the student lounge. Mr. Lerrick was a source of never-failing helpfulness. A look-in upstairs at the student union building at lunch time each day would find us gabbing or frantically finishing up physics problems.

Physics—that word will bring back memories long after we leave this place. Will we ever forget Mr. Taylor's class demonstrations? One time he was spinning like a top and the next he was one-eighth of an inch away from a bloody nose. Did we panic when we walked into his first test and found the rest of the class halfway through!

It took half the year for the girls to get settled in their "reserved rooms" but they finally made it. The girls enjoyed the cake Miss Visor gave us for winning a basketball game, and the party afterwards. Remember how careful we had to be in the close quarters of patient care class not to write on the margin of our paper for fear of taking someone else's notes for them? Our morale was boosted several notches by Mr. Jones' reassurance, "Don't worry, you'll be physical therapists before you know it."

Miss Trimble's favorite expressions were "palpable bony landmarks" and "Do you want to come up here a minute, please?" She gave us our initiation into dissection. We hope Ed profited from his weekly exercises. Remember the sneak rides up the elevator, the Christmas party at Sheltering Arms and Carlyle's unforgettable singing? The only class we were ever early for—massage lecture—and for good reason. Oh, but we learned how to "cover the whole area!" We didn't know the difference between a carpenter's nail and a surgical nail 'til we observed an operation.

Miss Hirt was right when she said that physical therapy was difficult to define. Now, at the end of our Junior year, we know something about what it entails. We have a taste of the science now. Next year, we'll be back to digest and store our knowledge of physical therapy for application in the future.

HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATION

FRANK DAWSON
President

THE Virginia Hospital Association, in 1947, recognized the lack of hospital personnel who had received formal training in hospital administration. Realizing the need for proper training in this exacting profession, it requested the Medical College of Virginia to institute a course in hospital administration. Through the untiring efforts of Mr. Charles P. Cardwell, Jr., Director of the Hospital Division of the Medical College of Virginia, the first classes were started on January 1, 1950.

From its beginning the course has had two specific phases: The first phase, six months of intensive classroom study, followed by the second phase, the administrative residency. Practical experience is gained by serving for one year in two of eight affiliating Virginia hospitals. Upon completion of the residency, a certificate in hospital administration is awarded.

With the growth of the course in stature and usefulness, the Board of Visitors of the Medical College of Virginia in 1952 approved a degree course. The didactic phase was extended to nine months, the residency period remaining the same.

The school of hospital administration is now a graduate school. Upon successful completion of the program the master's degree in hospital administration is conferred.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

THE graduate study program at the Medical College of Virginia was initiated in 1934 by Dr. John C. Forbes, who became the first Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Study. The earliest graduate students worked for the degree of Master of Science in the field of Biochemistry. Since then the program has grown steadily and, at present, work leading to the degree of Master of Science in the departments of Anatomy, Bacteriology, Biochemistry, Hospital Pharmacy, Legal Medicine, Pathology, Pharmaceutical Chemistry and Pharmacology. Qualified graduate students are also accepted for research leading to the degree of Master of Science in the School of Dentistry. Special opportunities are also provided for those who wish to prepare themselves both in medicine and in scientific research and for these students the degree of Master of Medical Science is offered in conjunction with the degree of Doctor of Medicine. A limited number of specially qualified students are carrying out studies for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. So far, doctoral candidates have been accepted only in the Department of Pharmacology. At the beginning of the present academic year there were fourteen enrolled in the graduate program. Since 1947, Dr. Ebbe Curtis Hoff has been Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Study.

THE Medical College of Virginia Hospital offers a one-year course in hospital dietetics to young women who have a B.S. degree from an accredited college or university and who can meet certain specific course requirements. The course is approved by the American Dietetic Association and, upon completion, interns are eligible for membership in the Association and may hold positions in Class "A" hospitals in the capacity of administrative, therapeutic, clinic, or teaching dietitian.

At present, the department is able to accept only twelve qualified applicants. Training is begun in September of each year and students are housed in the Frances Helen Zeigler House, one of the college dormitories. During training students receive 113 hours of lecture work, as well as practical experience in the various units. Instruction is given under the supervision of graduate dietitians in the Department of Dietetics.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, dietetic interns are granted a certificate from the Hospital Division, and are eligible for membership in the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE Student Council represents the student government within the Medical College of Virginia. Among the major functions of the Council are the accurate interpretations of the Constitution and Honor System, wise disbursement of Student Body funds, and supervision of school elections.

Under the able guidance of our President, Larry Goldman, the Council has made great progress in attaining a more co-operative student body and in obtaining the confidence of both students and faculty.

This year the student funds were distributed among the X-RAY, the Athletic Association, the Social Committee, and the Skull and Bones division of our college paper, The Medicovan.

We feel that the Student Council has proved very capable in maintaining the student government at a high level and in making for a better Medical College of Virginia.

HONOR COUNCIL

The Honor System is a system of self-government whereby the students themselves eliminate from their body those who fail to deport themselves as honorable men or women in all of their college matters. It is the duty of the Honor Council to try all cases considered infringements of our Honor Code. Each class elects two members to the Honor Council.

We are proud that the ideals of sound government, that the proper distribution of power and responsibility, and that the triumph of right are operating within the structure of our organizations. We have practiced and upheld these principles of democratic government and living—striving always to improve and progress in our campus activities, LIVING BETTER AS OUR KNOWLEDGE INCREASES.

In 1913, the first X-RAY was presented to the student body. Throughout the years, it has given us something concrete we need in our hours of reminiscing when our minds again turn to the days, both bitter and sweet, which we have spent at the Medical College of Virginia. The annual is representative of the different schools and the staff is open to all students. A staff representative is appointed for each class of each school. The X-RAY is governed by the students through the Board of Publications which chooses the Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager. Dr. Alton D. Brashear and Mr. Frank P. Pitts are the two Faculty Advisors.

The American Pharmaceutical Association, founded in 1852, is pharmacy's oldest association. A Student Branch was established at MCV February 25, 1942, to encourage in the broadest and most liberal manner the advancement of pharmacy as a science and as a profession in accordance with the objectives of the national organization, especially in fostering education in matters involving pharmacy in all of its branches and its applications and aiding in promoting the public health and welfare.

The Student Branch is designed to offer programs of interest to the student concerning topics related to pharmacy and science. A variety of information of specific interest to the prospective pharmacist not usually covered in the regular curricula is available to its members.

The Student Branch of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association was organized in the spring of 1955 through the efforts of many of the outgoing Seniors who realized the need for a link between the students of pharmacy and the practicing pharmacists throughout the state. It is the aim of the Student Branch to better prepare future pharmacists by bringing them in closer contact with the active men in pharmacy. The association hopes that by having programs led by professional men in the state, many of the problems that the beginning pharmacists meet can be solved through the experience of the speakers.

The Medical College of Virginia Chapter of the Student American Medical Association was formed in 1952. This young club has rapidly taken its place among the organizations of the school.

Our objects are to advance the profession of medicine, to contribute to the welfare and education of medical students on this campus and to strengthen the bond between the students of the Medical College of Virginia and other medical schools, to familiarize our members with the purposes and ideals of organized medicine, and to prepare them to meet the social, moral and ethical obligations of the profession of medicine.

The Student Dental Society was organized in its present form in the fall of 1946 with the expressed purpose of promoting scholarship and professionalism among the members of the Society.

The officers of the Society and two representatives from each class form an executive committee whose function is to promote a yearly program for the Society in certain activities of the School of Dentistry. Several times during the year a guest speaker is invited to speak to the Society. These sessions are always informative and usually promote group participation. A social hour follows, during which time refreshments are served. Another outstanding event of the year is the annual spring picnic to which the Faculty, members' wives and children are invited.

Membership is open to all students of the School of Dentistry. The Society is fortunate to have Dr. George W. Burke, Jr., as faculty advisor. Dr. Burke has given generously of his time and energies and has co-operated wholeheartedly with the executive committee in helping the Society serve its members best.

The Wesley Foundation is the Methodist Church at work on the campus at M. C. V. It is a nation-wide organization which endeavors to provide for the spiritual and social needs of students. The meetings, held every Sunday night at Broad Street Methodist Church, consist of a fellowship supper and program.

Social activities have included picnics, parties and deputations to Randolph-Macon. One of the biggest highlights of the year was the Religious Emphasis Week End.

Monumental Church, over one hundred and forty years old, serves as the M. C. V. Hospital Chapel. Located next to Cabaniss Hall, the church is convenient to all M. C. V. students, staff, and patients. Besides the regular church services, noon services were inaugurated this past year. These services are available to everyone, either at the church or over the radio system in the hospital. Dr. George Ossman is Rector of the church.

The Baptist Student Union is a youth organization for Baptist students in institutions of learning. It provides a full, well-rounded program of social and religious activities.

Every Baptist in college, graduate school, technical or professional school is a potential member of the Baptist Student Union. The major aim and ambition of the Baptist Student Union is to have a Christ-centered program which will lead students into active church life.

The year is filled with retreats, banquets, picnics, and other wonderful chances for fun and fellowship.

Since there was at the time no organization for Catholic students at M. C. V., the Reverend Robert Walsh, Dr. Count D. Gibson, and several medical students, in January, 1953, organized the Laennec Society. The society is named for Rene Laennec, inventor of the stethoscope, a man who gave classic descriptions of many intra-thoracic diseases, and who was a prominent Catholic physician of France during the French Revolution.

The Laennec Society was founded as an organization to bring together Catholic students, interns, and residents for discussion of the moral and spiritual aspects of practice in medicine and allied fields. Meetings are held the third Thursday of every month. The programs consist of talks by a priest or physician, followed by a lengthy question and discussion period.

THE Medical College of Virginia Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, with Directors and a paid Secretary, was organized in 1916. Mr. Mimms W. Lee, who was then State Y. M. C. A. Secretary, was influential in helping a group to get it started. The first Secretary was Mr. Phil B. Trigg, who served until 1920, when he was succeeded by Mr. Walter C. Cralle. The latter served for one year and was followed by Mr. Earl T. Sullenger, who remained for the next two years. In September, 1923, our present Secretary was appointed, and has guided the activities of the Association in a most able and efficient manner for the past thirty-three years.

Mr. Jonah L. Lerrick, as Executive Secretary, has rendered invaluable and unstinting service in behalf of student activities and athletics for over a quarter of a century, and the Medical College of Virginia Branch has indeed been fortunate in having such a willing, enthusiastic, and capable co-ordinator of student affairs.

THE Alumni Association is not only an official organization working actively for the benefit of the College and its graduates, but it is also a social group, which continues to foster fellowship among Medical College of Virginia graduates through the years. Alumni meetings are held at scientific events, both state and sectional, where Medical College of Virginia graduates may meet and renew old friendships. Local chapters also provide opportunities for alumni to maintain their close associations with each other and with the College.

Close liaison is maintained with the College, which invites the President of the Alumni Association to attend all meetings of the Board of Visitors, in order that the graduates of the Medical College of Virginia may have a voice in the formulation of its policies.

The Scarab is published by the Alumni Association four times a year and it is a source of information on the College and the alumni and a medium of exchange of opinion. Every graduate of the Medical College of Virginia receives a copy.

The War Memorial Alumni Building, completely debt-free, houses the office of the Alumni Association.

The lounges, now being redecorated and more completely furnished, are used as a meeting place for alumni and students.

The Alumni Association welcomes the graduates of 1956 into its membership and urges them to take an active interest in this organization.

The original student newspaper, Skull and Bones, was started in February, 1923, and discontinued in May, 1954. In the spring of 1954 the students voted to discontinue the Skull and Bones and instead, have four pages of student news in the regular college newspaper, The Medicovan, to be known as the Skull and Bones Section.

There are four editors appointed from each of the four major schools: medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and nursing. The first issue of the combined papers was in September, 1954.

The Medicovan was started in 1948 by Marvin W. Topping, then public relations director. It was named by Miss Ann Blanton, who won over other contestants in selecting a suitable name. The paper continued under the editorship of Mr. Topping until he resigned in the fall of 1950. In April, 1951, Miss Thelma Vaine Hoke was appointed editor.

and the child's language development. In this study, we focused on the relationship between the parents' culture and the child's language development.

The concept of culture has been defined in many ways. In this study, we used the definition of culture proposed by Hymes (1972). According to him, culture is a system of shared meanings, values, and practices that are transmitted from one generation to the next. The culture of the parents is thus a system of shared meanings, values, and practices that are transmitted from one generation to the next. The culture of the parents is thus a system of shared meanings, values, and practices that are transmitted from one generation to the next.

In this study, we focused on the relationship between the parents' culture and the child's language development. We hypothesized that the parents' culture would have a significant influence on the child's language development. Specifically, we hypothesized that the parents' culture would be positively related to the child's language development. We also hypothesized that the parents' culture would be negatively related to the child's language development. Finally, we hypothesized that the parents' culture would be positively related to the child's language development.

We conducted a survey of 100 parents of children aged 1 to 3 years. The parents were asked to answer questions about their culture, such as their language, religion, and ethnicity. The parents were also asked to answer questions about their child's language development, such as the age at which the child began to speak, the number of words the child knew, and the child's ability to follow simple instructions. The results showed that the parents' culture was positively related to the child's language development. Specifically, the parents' culture was positively related to the child's language development.

We also found that the parents' culture was negatively related to the child's language development. Specifically, the parents' culture was negatively related to the child's language development. Finally, we found that the parents' culture was positively related to the child's language development. Specifically, the parents' culture was positively related to the child's language development.

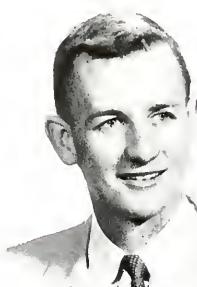

We conclude that the parents' culture has a significant influence on the child's language development. Specifically, the parents' culture is positively related to the child's language development. We also conclude that the parents' culture is negatively related to the child's language development. Finally, we conclude that the parents' culture is positively related to the child's language development.

THE Athletic Association was organized in 1923 with its prime aim to create within the school a means of relaxation, exercise and diversion and to encourage competitive spirit for the schools connected with the Medical College of Virginia. A complete schedule of intercollegiate play is maintained for men's basketball and tennis and girls' basketball. It also supervises intramural basketball, softball, baseball, ping pong, and has made available student membership at the Glenwood Country Club.

Dr. William Parker, Graduate Manager since 1924, provides the leadership and guidance for the association. Much of the success attained during the past twenty-nine years is attributed to the efforts of our leader and friend, Jonah L. Lerrick (better known as "Pop Lerrick"), who has worked tirelessly in student activities and interests.

Plans for the future include a Student Field House and Athletic Building to be erected on the campus.

THE 1956-57 season for the Medicettes was a very successful one. Each team member enjoyed a season of good hard team work. We participated in the Commonwealth League of Richmond this year and ended our season as champions of the league. Our total wins were 15 and losses 3.

Many thanks to Miss Viser, our Adviser, who was always there with loyal support, and to Beverly Beaver, our faithful Manager. John Cowley, our Coach, did a grand job in leading our team to victory each game.

All-star honors in the city league were presented to Carol Brenneman, our Captain, and to Nancy Mintzer.

ALPHA SIGMA CHI, founded at the Medical College of Virginia in 1938, is an honorary society organized to serve the college and student body and to grant recognition to those who by meeting high standards of leadership, scholarship and character have demonstrated ability and willingness to play roles in carrying on student activities.

Members are chosen from the schools of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Nursing. An honorary member is chosen annually from among the faculty.

Prime purposes of the society are to provide an organization with lofty ideals entirely above smallness, politics, or personal favoritism and to create a spirit of fellowship and co-operation among students in the four schools.

ALPHA OMEGA ALPHA, Honorary Medical Society, was founded by William W. Root at the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois in 1902. The Beta Chapter of Virginia, known as the Brown-Sequard Chapter, was organized at the Medical College of Virginia in 1940 under the counselorship of Dr. William B. Porter.

Selection to membership is based upon the qualities of scholarship in the broad sense, which connotes continuous industry, effectiveness in method of work, facility in correlating facts, and an intellectual grasp that permits the application of information to new problems.

ALPHA ZETA OMEGA, National Pharmaceutical Fraternity, was founded at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science in 1919. The local chapter, Omega Chi, was organized at the Medical College of Virginia in 1951.

"Having discovered that through intimate association with one another, and by practice of the virtues of mutual trust, sympathy, faithfulness, and unselfishness, we have been able to advance our profession, exalt our alma mater, and build strongly our individual characters; and being desirous of maintaining and expanding that principle of association and friendship and co-operation, Alpha Zeta Omega was founded."

IN APPRECIATION

To those who made the 1956 X-RAY a reality, the Editor wishes to thank the most valuable group, the Staff. The Business Manager, Bill Cabell, and his co-worker, Felix Shepard, deserve credit for a hard job that was well done. The Associate Editor, Clementine Sadler, and Department Editors Gene Andrews, Bob Jones, Kay Detwiler, Willie Newkirk, Ronald Thomas, Nancy Kashner, Shirley Hartman, Lee Vance Fitzgerald, Verona Henderson, John Butler, Bob Beasley, Diane Diedrich, Carol Brenneman, Helen Casper, and the many members of the Business Staff have all done splendid work and their co-operation has been deeply appreciated in organizing this publication.

Special thanks is extended to those whose work and efforts have been outstanding:

Mr. Lester Chandler, Mr. M. H. Jones, and Mr. William Harkess of the Everett Wadday Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dementi, Mrs. Kay M. Nochta, Mr. Jack Turner, and Mr. Doug Green of Colonial Studio.

Mr. William W. Blankenship of the Richmond Engraving Company.

Miss Thelma Vaine Hoke of the Medical College of Virginia.
